LA MISIÓN is named for the 35 known historical mission locations established by Spanish Christian missionaries throughout Texas from the 1600s-1700s--the most famous mission location being the Alamo (originally Misión San Antonio de Valero). The purpose of these missions was to act as a home base for the missionaries who shared the saving message of Jesus Christ to the native peoples and to establish a Christian cultural identity in Texas. One missionary, friar Damián Massanet, was called "teycha" (translated as friend/ally) by the Caddo Indians of east Texas. Massanet would write this title as "Tejas" to refer to the people and the place that would become known as Texas.
